Liberty Communications Settles into new Headquarters in Moorestown, NJ

Growing technology company expands into new facility.

MOORESTOWN, NJ — July 20, 2009 — Liberty Communications & Data Systems, Inc., a regional leader in business communications, announced the opening of their new location in Moorestown.

Liberty Communications, founded by telecom veteran Gerry Gordon in 1996, is proud to call Moorestown the company's permanent home: "As the company has grown we needed more space to house operations; this forced us to move every couple years, and with the company's success at an all time high, I felt it was the right time to purchase a building, custom outfit the space and have plenty of room for continued growth."

While the new space was under construction, the Liberty staff worked within the TAO building in Moorestown. TAO is a Liberty customer as well as the architecture firm that designed the new office. Construction on the space began in late 2008 by Glassboro based Gibraltar Construction. Project foreman Eric Morris expressed his enjoyment of working with Liberty Communications, "When Liberty approached us about outfitting their new space, they had some very specific and unique ideas, and I'm happy to report that the space turned out excellent, exceeding both of our expectations."

Liberty's office manager, Tina Trailes, was extremely satisfied with the new space as well, "It is everything we wanted and more, from the expanded warehouse for all of our stock to the beautiful conference room to host clients. I am really proud to call this new office home."

When designing Liberty's new office, Gordon's vision was to showcase his company, "I wanted to put our industry and what we do on display. When clients visit they will get to see our work and our equipment operating in real time, creating a true demo experience."

Liberty wasted no time utilizing the new space, Gordon added, "We have already hosted one Lunch & Learn that was an amazing success. In July, we will be hosting an event for our customers to meet with our technicians to discuss ways to enhance our service response. Then in August we will be hosting a large event for the Burlington County Chamber of Commerce." Ultimately, Gordon hopes to host monthly technology and networking events at the Moorestown location.

Even with the state of the current economy and many company's futures in question, Liberty Communications believes the new office is a statement of their success. Gerry Gordon explained, "Telecommunications is one of the few fields that is doing well right now, and Liberty is no different. We have had to change the way in which we do business, focusing on ways to reduce telecommunication expenses for our clients while increasing their efficiency. These changes have led to greater successes within the company, and this beautiful new space will act as the backbone to this and future success."

In addition to its headquarters in Moorestown, NJ, Liberty will be opening a field office in Philadelphia during the 4th quarter of 2009, with plans for future offices in Atlantic County and Delaware.
